

Helen Wiley

SBP

Helen Wiley is Disaster Preparedness Program Director at SBP, a national disaster resilience non-profit. Additionally, she is a founding Board Member of Insurance for Good, a new non-profit designed to be the hub for a growing community of practice of people and institutions in the US working to harness risk transfer in support of social and environmental goals. Her expertise is in disaster insurance and risk communication. Helen's domestic and international policy experience in disaster risk reduction and adaptation issues has grounded her belief in the criticality of better preparing vulnerable communities pre-disaster to improve recovery
